For Children's Hospital

For 80 years the Children's Hospital in Boston has served the state and in fact has given to the United States the first and only general hospital for children exclusively. The work of the hospital has expanded rapidly with the progress in medical science and physicians have come more and more to rely upon it. It is in reality a modern Children's Medical Center and plans are now being undertaken to provide a large building which is desperately needed for the hospital to carry out the demands made upon it. Former Governor Robert F. Bradford has undertaken, as one of the sponsors for the new improvement, the task of conducting a campaign for funds throughout New England. An appeal will be made for funds in Northfield and a committee will be named soon to receive contributions.

Loomis Headmaster

William Speer, well known here, who frequently visited at the home of his brother and family, the late Elliot Speer, former President of Northfield Schools, has accepted the post of Headmaster of the Loomis Institute at Windsor, Conn. He was the unanimous selection of its Board of Trustees. Mr. Speer is a veteran of the last war and for three years was in the Navy Department. He has been an educator since his graduation from college. The Loomis Institute has two schools, one for boys and the Chaffee school for girls.

News of 4-H CLUBS

The Northfield 4-H Club would like to thank Harry Gingras for letting them use his store window to display some of the work they have done this winter.

We had quite a time getting Bruce's muffins to the store. They were placed in the basket with the other things to take down and when we checked to be sure everything was there — the muffins had disappeared completely. Our Great Dane, Duchess, who never — well almost never — steals, must have thought they were very good. The morning after we put the things in the window Harry found his cat had also thought the muffins should be eaten and not just dry up. I know I felt like eating Irene's cake but I dare say the birds will enjoy what is left of the cake and muffins.

This week our 4-H boys will continue their wrestling lessons and the girls will do some sewing and knitting.

Boston Flower Show

The Boston Flower Show will open on Sunday, March 13 in the Mechanics Building and will continue through the 19th. It will be the 28th annual exhibition of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society which is attended by flower lovers throughout New England.

As in former years there will be many attending from Northfield and a bus will carry round trip passengers starting from the Northfield Hotel on Monday the 14th. On this day a bus will carry a contingent from Millers Falls and two buses will make the run from Brattleboro. Anyone from Northfield who desires to make the trip should confer with Mr. Irving J. Lawrence or the local Garden Club. As in former years the Flower show will depict many attractive and alluring set scenes, and flowers of all kinds will be in abundance.

"The Happy Worrier"

We got a book from Mrs. Phelps over at the Library the other day called "How to Worry Successfully". That did it! We had been wondering why we were getting gray. Why the soup tasted like soup. Why our boy Algernon wouldn't stay in the same room with us — and a great many other things. Now we know the reason — we were worrying UN-successfully. Now we are making plans — grandiose plans — to worry SUCCESSFULLY.

Now — if someone tells you, "Don't worry about a thing". Don't believe it — you're out on the wrong foot. You have to worry about something. Think about something to worry about. What if father got his finger stuck in the penny bank? What if mother ran her apron through the wringer, while she was in it? What if Junior sat in a can of stove black? Those are just a few suggestions — you can probably think of more.

The point is however, you must worry SUCCESSFULLY. How? Well, let's see how would be the best way to do it? Perhaps this five point plan for successful worrying would give you a good start:

1. Pull all the shades down and plug the keyholes. (This is to insure privacy while you warm up.)

2. Tear out your telephone. (Before the company does it.)

3. Put your loose fitting plates in lukewarm water. (So you won't be able to grit your teeth, and cause more dentist bills, which cause more worry.)

4. Put on a pair of heavy gloves. (Chewing finger nails is not a part of this course in Successful worrying — either that or chew them off before you start worrying.)

5. Plug your ears with cotton, if they are not already so. (This is so you can't hear yourself laugh when you begin to worry SUCCESSFULLY, otherwise you might get into the rut of ordinary worry as to why you are laughing, which of course will return to you where you are in the beginning — worrying UN-successfully.)

Now — while we wait for you to lie down a hang-gall, we shall go out and examine the case history of J. Treadmill Schnock. Mr. Schnock as we gather from the files, was what is known to the trade as a "fighting worrier". This to us, or we, (whichever you prefer) layman means little or less. Taking the lesser side of it then—Mr. Schnock (or as his wife would call him in moments of stress — Schnock) used to worry about shingles falling from his house, low water pressure, tight-fitting garters, falling hair, falling arches, falling down, and falling. Therefore, and in conclusion, if we examine the background of the case we will discover that Mr. Schnock was falling, but more important, he was worrying about falling. Now, if the case in point, Mr. Schnock, were worrying successfully about his problem — he could turn all this to his advantage, and become a happier and successful worrier.

This world would be a far better place if we had more happy worriers. So begin tomorrow and worry successfully.

(I hope that front tire doesn't blow out — and the faucets stop leaking — and the coal lasts — price of meat goes down — and the temperature goes up — and the price of eggs goes down — and the income goes up — and the tax rate goes down — up and down — up and down — we're down to the half moon now — but then why worry — or better still — why NOT worry — about what? — if nothing else — worry about worry

A Report

The Northfield Press
Northfield, Mass.
Dear Mr. Editor.

At the annual Town Meeting, under Article 39, the following vote was taken:

"Voted that the Town elect a committee of five to investigate the need and possibility of acquiring the building on the east side of Main street, known as the Youth Hostel, or any other property for the use as a recreation center, and that this committee be composed of Mott P. Guhse, Mrs. Benjamin R. Andrews, Jr., Albert L. Rice, Mrs. F. Earl Lilly and Edward C. Bolton."

The above committee met on March 6, 1949 in the American Youth Hostel building and inspected that property. All members of said committee were present; Mr. Mott P. Guhse was elected chairman and Mrs. F. Earl Lilly, secretary.

Mr. Wilson, assistant treasurer, A. Y. H., wished to make it clear to the committee and to the people of Northfield, that the property would not be given away, but offered for sale to the highest bidder as soon as vacated. All buildings and approximately four (4) acres of land on the east side of Main street will be offered for sale in the near future.

The committee, in view of the amount of money that the purchase of said property by the Town would necessitate, were unanimous in their belief that:

1. Repairing the building to make it suitable for a recreation center would be more expensive than a new building, and,

2. The building does not lend itself for some forms of recreation. However, if this property were to be given to the Town, as was first presumed, the location is an ideal spot for developing a recreational center.

The committee will meet again in the near future to investigate other properties and discuss the results of research done by the members.

HISTORICAL NOTES
NORTHFIELD FIRE HOSE COMPANY

On Nov. 10, 1914 the Company received keys to the new Hose House and they were distributed to the members.

On April 13, 1915, Capt. Brisol reported several fires: Feb. 24, D. Sutherland; March 18, Coughlin's; March 29, Railroad, grass fire; April 9, Meadow fire.

On July 13th a fire was reported at W. Moore's "and the Company by borrowing the hose of D. Preston, East Northfield Co." The Hotel Northfield, and C. H. Webster were able to get water to the premises from the hydrant opposite the residence of J. W. Wall. The house was burned, but the Company saved the barn and outbuildings.

At the October 12th meeting, "There was considerable discussion as to what the duties of the Hose Co. might be in relation to the Fire Extinguishers recently purchased by the Town and as there was a great difference of opinion as to whether this Co. had anything to do with it or not, the Secretary was asked to get a copy of the Town's vote authorizing the formation of the Company."

On May 9, 1916 Will Hendra resigned from the Company, and on June 13 Fred W. Doane was elected to fill the vacancy. A fire at Lawrence blacksmith shop on May 25 was reported.

Walter Fisher resigned from the company on July 11th and J. Lincoln Hammond was elected to fill the vacancy. A fire at Joe Solzog at the Upper Farms was reported with the house being completely burned.

Will Lara resigned from the Company on October 10, and Will Dale resigned on Nov. 14, but on January 8, 1917 Will Lara rejoined the Company. At the Feb. 13 meeting three fires were reported: Fred Watson's; Tom Clark's; and Walter Brigham's.

With the advent of "Garden Book Week" this week, spring really seems on the way. Are you interested in starting early plants for transplanting later? We have books on all subjects for the gardener. To list a few, we have: Garden bulbs in color, by MacFarland; Garden Flowers in color by Stevens; The Old Dobber's garden book, by Williams; The Garden Guide; I Like Gardening, by Hale; Do You Know Your Garden? by Goshorn; The Gardener's bug book, by Westcott; and 10,000 garden questions answered.

Have you a new home for landscaping? How to Landscape your grounds, by Johnson and the Book of Trees, by Hottes, may be of help.

Are you a bird lover? Our bird friends are returning from their southern vacations and each week will see one or more returning to their old homes or building new;

no "rent control" to bother their domestic scene. We have books of New England birds, Massachusetts birds and just "birds".

Are you interested in what your Congress is doing this year? The "Congressional Record" is received at your library and gives a day by day record of "Proceedings and debates of the 81st Congress, First Session." These may be borrowed the same as periodicals. The March 7th number records the "Legislative day of Monday, February 21, 1949."

Several have requested John Gunther's new book, a biography of his son, Johnny. The book, "Death be not proud," is now in the library.

I wish to thank all who have responded to my appeal for current magazines. Those received have been most helpful. We could use some on science and the fine arts.

THE OVERSEAS

This letter was written to Miss Ethel M. Moody of East Northfield

88 Rue Nationale, Camiers
Pas-de-Calais, Jan. 22, 1949

Madam:

At last, I'm taking time to answer your letter that I received in December; I couldn't answer it before, for I was sick and, too, because I had no money until I cashed my pension.

I live in a little house, at Camiers, a fishing village of 2000 inhabitants, on the coast facing England, about 18 miles from Boulogne-sur-mer.

I am 62 years old, my husband died in the 1914-1918 war; I have only a very small pension to live on; having been sick for 12 years, I can do hardly anything except my housework.

I have a son just 36; I scrimped along to give him a little education; he, too, like you was a teacher in a public school. He was married, his wife was killed while on a trip 8 months ago; my son, a prisoner in Germany, was repatriated after a year as an incurable invalid. He has four children, 9, 8, 3 and 1½ years respectively. He can't work anymore, so we live together on the two very small pensions. No one has yet written to my son from your country. He can't go out anymore for lack of clothes and his children soon won't be able to go to school, also for lack of clothes. If you can write me, I shall be very happy, but if you find among your friends some who would have some worn clothing for my son, who is about medium size, I should be grateful to you all my life. His name: Mr. Emile Labarre, 88 Rue Nationale, Camiers, Pas-de-Calais, France. With this hope, accept my friendship.

Madame Labarre

MR. M. CARLTON BROWN
May we introduce to you Mr. Brown, the capable instructor in business subjects in Northfield High School? This member of our high school faculty has a strong sentimental attachment for the state of Maine — and there are excellent reasons why. He spent much of his earlier life there, and as soon as school closes he hurries back to breathe his "native air" at his camp.

Mr. Brown, somewhat of a "down-Easter" in thought and speech as well as in background, was born in Alexander, Maine, and received his early education at Woodland. A "chip off the old block," he has followed in the footsteps of his father, who for many years taught in high schools in the state of Maine. By way of preparation for his career, Mr. Brown has taken normal school training at Bay Path Institute at Springfield, Mass., two years of Business Administration courses at Northeastern University Night School, and summer courses at the University of Maine and Washington State Normal School.

After completing high school, Mr. Brown spent two years as an office worker at the St. Croix Paper Co. at Woodland, Maine. During the recent war, he worked for four years as a private secretary to the Certified Public Accountant of the St. Croix Paper Co., and in addition was treasurer to the many war funds drives there. He also worked for two years as manager of the boys' department of the Bessie System store in Bangor. This extensive technical training and business experience have qualified him to teach his business courses from a practical point of view. He knows what employers want in an office worker and he is giving our boys and girls an excellent training in just those things they will need most as they enter the business world.

Mr. Brown is treasurer of the high school lunchroom, has charge of the high school funds, is freshman class advisor, and is in charge of the annual Junior "Prom". Previous to coming to Northfield, Mr. Brown had taught for fourteen years at Suffield Academy at Suffield, Conn.; for two years at Calais Academy at Calais, Maine; and for one year each at Biddeford and Woodland High Schools in Maine. At Suffield Academy he supervised and directed a school orchestra for several years. This is the third year he has taught at Northfield High School.

The Browns are living in the home of R. L. Wood, next to the high school. Mrs. Brown is active in work at the Northfield, and their son Jerry, a Freshman at Suffield Academy. The family spends its summers at Silver Birch field Grange and although a member of the Episcopal church had been associated with the Trinitarian Congregational Church and its organizations during all her life in Northfield.

Mrs. Moore is survived by four children: Mrs. H. M. Shepard, Alfred, Mass.; Mrs. Bessie Moore, White Plains, N. Y.; Rev. Merrill Miles Moore, Rector of Trinity Church, Bethlehem, Pa.; and Mrs. Ward N. Boylston of Brattleboro, Vt.; one brother, Thomas H. Styles of New York City; four grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Kidder Funeral Home, March 3, with the Rev. Joseph W. Reeves officiating. Pall bearers were Brainard Taylor, Alexander Hay, F. Myron Dunnett, Peter Ladzinski, Jr. Burial was in Center Cemetery in the family plot.

Mrs. Bolton continues to use the talent developed in high school and has taken part in several plays given by the Northfield Teachers' Club and other organizations.

Lodge, the cottage they built at Perry, Maine, years ago. "Brownie" (as he is known to his associates) finds recreation in his garden, boating, deep-sea fishing, clam digging, and playing in dance orchestras. Music has always brought great satisfaction and pleasure to him, and one of his chief hobbies is playing the piano and saxophone. He puts into his playing a pep and a rhythm which are particularly appealing to the younger set.

MRS. RUTH BOLTON

Gill, Mass., was the birthplace of one of Northfield's first grade teachers, Ruth Whitaker Bolton, who was a member of large family. After completing the grades in Gill she entered Powers Institute in Bernardston where she moved during her Freshman year. Through all her years in high school she took piano and pipe organ lessons, worked in the telephone office before and after school and week ends and assisted in the public library. She was a member of the church choir and a Sunday School teacher.

At Powers she took part in school plays. After graduation in 1928 she attended Fitchburg Normal School and was graduated in 1930. While there she was a member of Student Government, Women's Athletic Association, and was a forward on the 1928-1930 All Normal Basketball Team, a member of the Girls' Glee Club and worked in the library.

She began her teaching career in the first four grades at the Gill North School where she had first attended school.

In 1932 she married Edward C. Bolton, a local carpenter and contractor. Mr. and Mrs. Bolton have two daughters, Beverly and Arolyne, Junior High School students.

Mrs. Bolton did a great deal of substituting in all the towns of Union 22 and in Vernon, Vt. When her daughters were old enough to enter school, she returned to the teaching profession at the request of school officials and held positions in West Northfield and Gill before coming to Northfield Center School in 1943 as teacher of the first grade, the situation which she has filled very acceptably since.

Mrs. Bolton is a member of the Trinitarian Congregational Church, an officer in the Eastern Star, a member of the P.T.A., the Fortnightly, and Teachers' Club.

Besides a trip to Canada, her travels include an auto trip over the Skyline Route to Virginia and North Carolina where she visited many places of historical interest. Every summer the family spends some time fishing at Lake Winnipesaukee.

Mrs. Bolton continues to use the talent developed in high school and has taken part in several plays given by the Northfield Teachers' Club and other organizations.
